BROTHER SEEKS REVENGE

Captain Scott who Brought About Capture Tries to Shoot Murderer, But is Disarmed

HOBOKEN, N. J., June 23.—Porter Charlton, confessed murderer of his wife, Mrs. Mary Scott Charlton, at Lake Como, Italy, was arrested today as the Princess Irene of the North German Lloyd line entered her dock in this city.

A few minutes later in the police headquarters of Hoboken he was facing a loaded revolver in the hands of Captain Scott United States coast artillery, a brother of the dead woman. Captain Scott was disarmed before he had time to shoot.

Charlton made a complete confession in which he admitted he killed his wife in a fit of temper and threw her body into the lake. He completely exonerated Constantine Isajoff, the Russian who was arrested on the charge of being implicated in the murder.

Charlton was arraigned in the Hoboken police court and said he had no defense and wished to make none. He was remanded until tomorrow morning and the state department at Washington was immediately informed of his arrest.

Under an Alias
The Princess Irene came up to her pier in Hoboken at 12:30 today. Waiting at the pier were Captain Scott, Lieut. Rogers of the New York police force and a couple of detectives. The officers hurried to the second cabin and burst into the room occupied by a man who registered on the steamer as Jack Coleman of Omaha, Neb. He was neatly clad in a blue serge suit and wore a derby hat.

"Coleman," who is a slightly built youth, said: "What do you want?" Captain Scott immediately recognized him as Porter Charlton. In spite of this the man denied his identity and still insisted that he was Jack Coleman of Omaha. He was taken to the office of the chief of police. There he still persisted that he was Jack Coleman. He was forced to write his assumed name and it so closely resembled his known signature that when confronted with this he finally confessed under the "third degree" he was the man sought. He said: "I might as well tell you all," and then dictated the following statement:

Confession of Crime
"My name is Porter Charlton. I live at 204 West 55th street New York. I am 22 years old. My home is in Omaha. I am a bank clerk by profession. I lived very happily with my wife who was the best woman in the world to me, but she had a most unmanageable temper and so had I. We quarreled frequently and she used vile language to me, the meaning of which I am sure she did not know. On the day I killed her she had cursed me and I told her if she did it again I would fix her. In a daze I struck her with a mallet with which I had been fixing a couch on which we had been lying. I thought her dead. I stuffed her body in a trunk and threw the mallet in after her. That night after 12 o'clock I threw the trunk in the lake. The following day I left for Genoa where I boarded the Princess Irene four days later for New York."

Shows Cowardly Streak
It was in the office of the chief of police that Captain Scott drew the revolver. Up to that time young Charlton, a prepossessing looking youth dressed as a typical college man, had been calm and collected. He was telling the men about him of his married life and made a serious charge against his wife.

Captain Scott, nervous and wrought up, sprang from his chair, his hand flashed to his hip pocket and a revolver leaped into view. As the big army officer towered over him, Charlton covered in his chair and begged for mercy. Detective Sergeant Weantel leaped forward and grappled with the army officer. The other policemen joined in the melee and finally managed to wrest the revolver from Scott. Charlton, all the while remained in his chair and called to the officers to save him.

Passengers on the Princess Irene say the young fellow kept to himself during the voyage but that his conduct was not suspicious in the least. Few of the people on board the vessel when she docked were aware that the youngster was being arrested on the charge of murdering his wife, so quietly did the officers go about their business. Charlton had no baggage.

COUNTRY FACES SERIOUS CRISIS

So Says President of New York Central System in Sensational Address to Minnesota Bankers

FARM PRODUCTS CONSUMED

And Gold Is Increasing Until it Buys Little; in Farms Lie Nation's Problems

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 23.—That the United States is facing the most serious crisis in its history was the declaration of W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central system in a sensational address delivered today at the 21st annual convention of the Minnesota state bankers association. He declared that the food consumption of the nation is rapidly exceeding the production, that the gold production is increasing so that its purchasing power is being materially reduced and that the development of the farms of the country is the most imperative problem now before the nation. "If the converging lines of production and consumption in the United States continue to approach each other as they have during the last ten years," he said, "before the middle of the decade upon which we have just entered has been reached the last vessel loaded with agricultural products of this country will have left our shores; the great grain exporting elevators in our seaboard cities will stand empty and this great nation like those of the old world will be looking with anxious eyes for a place to buy the necessities of life. When the day comes that this nation fails to produce sufficient food to supply our own people when we no longer send the product of our farms abroad, bringing back the gold from foreign nations, what will be the cost of living in this country, and where will the money come from to meet this debt?"

President Brown discussed the fact that, despite the bountiful crops grown in this country since 1898, price of food stuffs have steadily advanced and that this example has been followed by "everything grown or manufactured," while land values in the middle west have more than doubled. He stated that there is a direct relation between the increasing supply of gold and the high prices now prevailing, inasmuch as gold, being indestructible, stays on the market while coal is burned and grains, etc., consumed.

"As it accumulates, it takes more gold to buy a bushel of wheat, a suit of clothes, a pound of beef steak, a sack of flour, or any of the other necessities of life," he declared, "and for this reason the pay of labor has steadily advanced and will continue to advance in some fair ratio with the increase in the cost of things that labor must buy."

President Brown then reviewed the gold discoveries, explaining that before the middle of the present century the world's annual production of gold will be a billion dollars. The result must be a readjustment to changed conditions, he said. He cited statistics showing the exact proportion of the increase of every kind of product and then declared that, in his opinion, the only real remedy was to increase the productivity of the farm lands of the country.

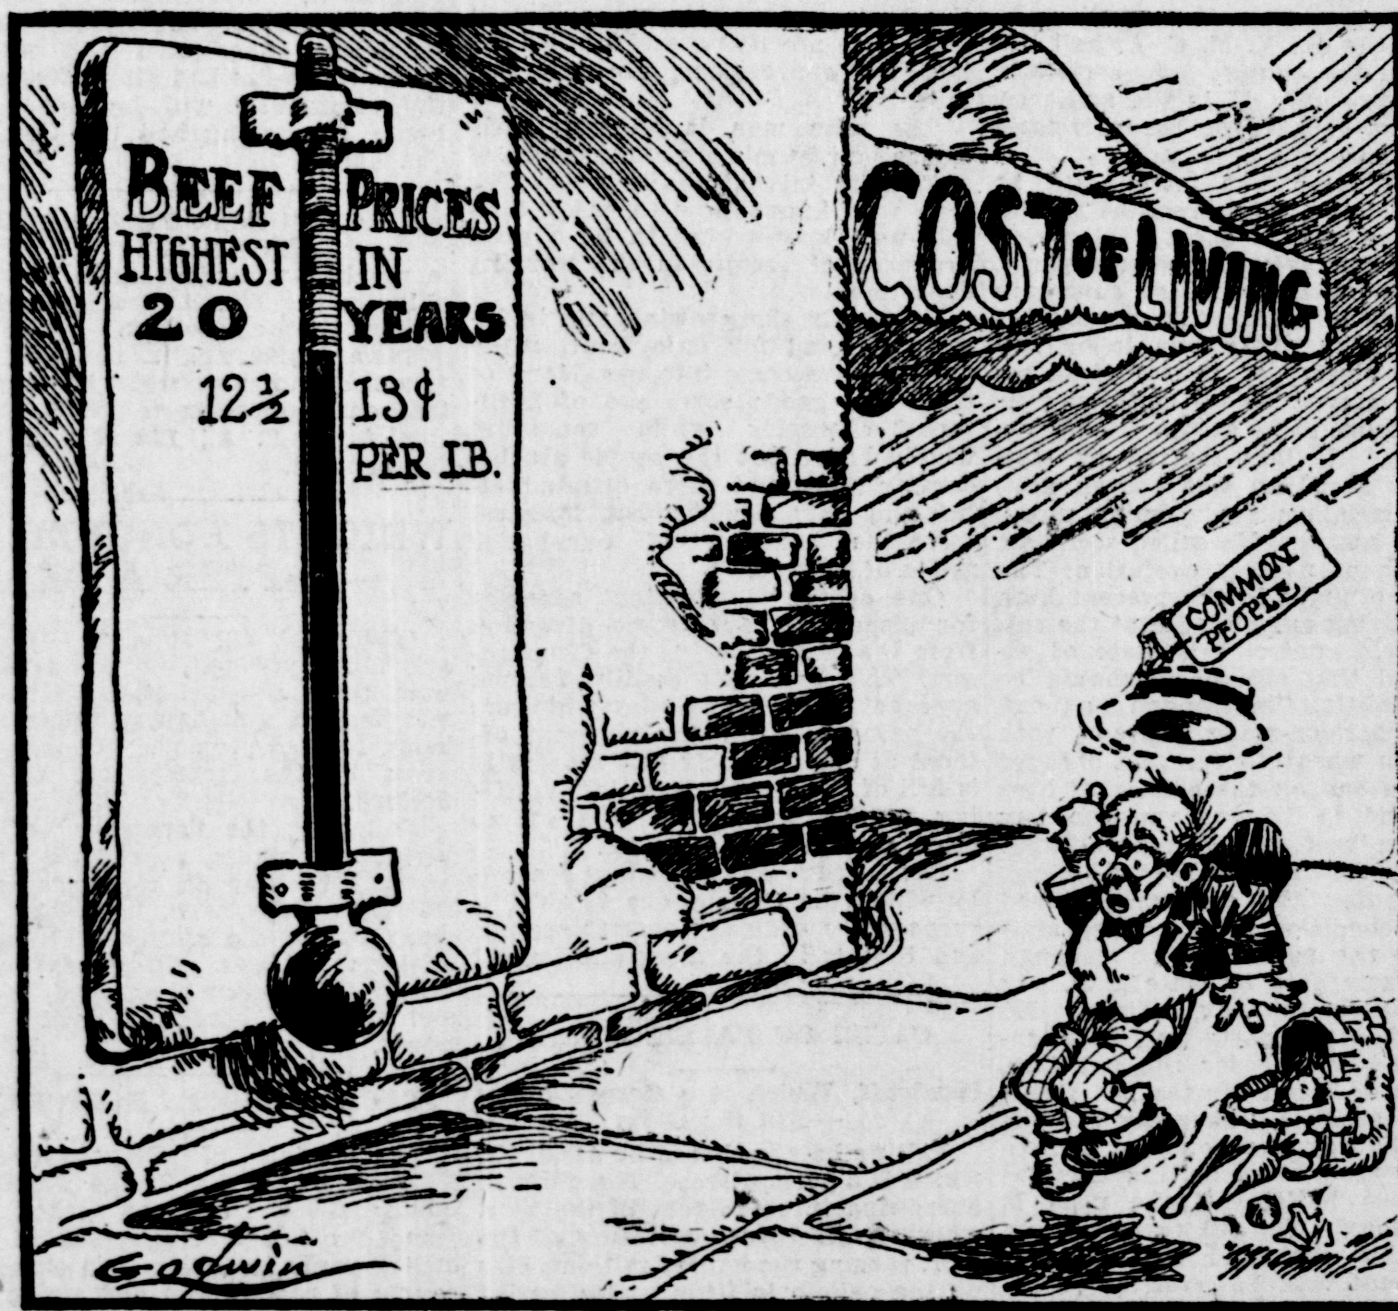

"Our failure to increase the products of our farms in anything like the ratio of increase in consumption," he declared, "is exerting more than three times the effect upon the cost of living that is being exerted by all other causes, including the increase of gold. Last year, Argentina forged ahead of the United States and took first place among the grain exporting countries in the world, in addition to shipping sixty per cent of all the meat consumed in Europe. This was due to our lax methods."

"For half a century our exports of the product of our farms have kept a steady stream of gold flowing to our shores. Now, when almost double the volume of money is required to transact a given amount of business as compared with ten years ago, the flow of gold from this source is steadily declining and seems certain to disappear entirely."

"It does not require the experience of a railroad man to know that with one train—representing production—running at the rate of 36 miles per hour, followed by another train—representing consumption—running at the rate of 60 miles an hour, either the leading train must be speeded up, the following train slowed down or disaster is only a question of time. We are building great battleships, two of them a year, costing ten million dollars each and a million a year to maintain each one, and I wish that mo-

GETTING NEAR THE PROSTRATION MARK

BROWNE CASE IS READY FOR JURY

Attorneys Finishing Up the Arguments in Bribery Trial This Afternoon

CHICAGO, June 23.—The case of Lee O'Neil Browne, accused of bribery in connection with the election of United States Senator Lorimer may be in the hands of the jury before night. Attorney P. H. O'Donnell concluded his address for the defense today and was followed by Attorney Forrest, also representing Browne. At the end of Forrest's argument, State's Attorney Wayman will sum up for the prosecution. The court's instructions to the jury have already been prepared. Both prosecution and defense are confident of victory.

"Browne will be acquitted on the first ballot," declared one of his attorneys.

"Browne will be convicted," declared an attorney of the state's attorney's office. "We do not expect the jury to be out long."

When Attorney O'Donnell resumed his argument today he referred to the alleged statement of Representative White that he had killed two men and cried: "Mr. Wayman attempts to belittle murder to elevate this charge against the defendant."

The attorney mentioned White's statement that Browne had told him: "We have plenty of state jobs and plenty of the ready necessary," and declared that it was not likely that Gov. Deneen would give state jobs to aid in the election of Lorimer, whom he opposed.

YANKEE FLEET AT PLYMOUTH, ENGLAND

PLYMOUTH, Eng., June 23.—After a stormy voyage of two weeks the American squadron of three battleships, led by the Massachusetts, engaged in the annual summer cruise for midshipmen, arrived here today. The fleet will remain for several days and the town is preparing a big program of festivities in honor of the visiting officers and sailors.

CHIEF KOHLER IS EXONERATED TODAY

CLEVELAND, O., June 23.—The civil service commission today exonerated Chief of Police Fred Kohler, whom Theodore Roosevelt termed "the best chief of police in America," of any guilt in connection with the 23 specific charges of drunkenness, immorality and misconduct filed with Mayor Baehr on May 24 by Attorney Schoeneman and Contracting Engineer H. J. Brown. The commission held that the evidence failed to show that he was unfit for office. The decision deprives Mayor Baehr of power to remove Kohler on these charges and he is automatically reinstated.

ANOTHER HOT ONE TEMPERATURE 96

Warm Wave Continues and Forecast is for Fair and Warm Weather tomorrow

The warm wave continues and today was another scorcher, the temperature at the weather bureau at 3 o'clock this afternoon, being 96 degrees. This is about the same as yesterday, when the 96 mark was reached at the same hour.

The forecast is for fair weather tonight and Friday with continued warm weather. There is no general rain in sight and indications are that tomorrow will be another hot day like today and yesterday.

Congressman Overcome

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—The first heat prostration of the year here occurred today when Representative Barnhart of Rochester, Ind., collapsed in his bedroom, falling unconscious on the floor. A physician said he was in a serious condition but would recover.

Overcome in the Snow

DENVER, Col., June 23.—A heat prostration in the midst of snow was the peculiar phenomenon with which Denver physicians were compelled to cope today.

Harry Compton, 23, a brakeman on the Moffat road, was overcome by heat while working on top of the cars as his train was standing in the mountain region of perpetual snow. He was hurried to Denver today and his condition is critical.

Trouble in Northwest

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 23.—Death and destruction rained the hottest day of the season through the northwest yesterday with the temperature at 96 here. Rains fell throughout western Minnesota localities and generally throughout North Dakota and northern South Dakota.

Five deaths and one serious injury were reported up to midnight last night as due to the intense heat. Hot and dry weather has developed dangerous brush and forest fires on the Mesaba and Vermilion ranges.

A vast amount of timber is burning on the Vermilion range south of Ely. The safety of homesteader families in isolated sections is creating some alarm.

Death Toll Grows

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 23.—The tolls of the torrid wave which for the preceding three days has totaled twenty-four fatalities, was augmented early today by two. Both the temperature and humidity are higher than yesterday.

BALLINGER "FIRES" ANOTHER ENEMY

PORTLAND, Oregon, June 23.—Horace T. Jones, special agent of the general land office, who led the fight against Ballinger before the Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee, last night received official notice of his dismissal from the government service, according to an announcement by Jones today.

Jones today mailed to the Ballinger investigating committee a red hot protest against Ballinger's action in dismissing him. His letter declares that Ballinger is trying to punish him solely because he testified to the facts which were revealed by his investigation of the Cunningham claims in Alaska. The letter charges that Ballinger has been guilty of "bias" and "falsifying" and alleges that the secretary greatly injured the republican party by not resigning from the cabinet.

LUNCHESES WITH ROUGH RIDERS

Roosevelt Guest of Honor
Today After a Late
Dinner with R. J.
Collier

NEW YORK, June 23.—Col. Roosevelt was the guest of honor today at a luncheon given by his former comrades in arms at the Harvard club. Following the luncheon, the battle of San Juan hill was fought again; the round robin regarding embalmed beef was discussed and some unkind things said about the mustering out camp at Montauk Point.

Col. Roosevelt rose today at 10:30 after dining until after midnight as the guest of Robert J. Collier, at Sherry's. He said he felt fine, without a trace of a headache. Immediately after breakfast he went in his automobile to his office in the Outlook where he dashed off a few editorials, marked them to be set "black face," double column, triple leaded and then awaited the coming of the Rough Riders' reception committee.

Plates were set for eighty. General Sumner U. S. A., retired, presided, with Gen. Cooper, U. S. A., as his aide. There were no set speeches but a general talkfest. Outsiders were barred.

Immediately after the luncheon, the rough riders without their colonel went to Coney Island. Roosevelt journeyed back to Oyster Bay in his automobile.

WASHINGTON HAS 331,069 PEOPLE

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—The population of the city of Washington is 331,069. This statement by the census bureau this afternoon is the first official announcement of any population total as the result of the 1910 census. In 1900 the population of Washington was 278,718.

Other Results

WASHINGTON, June 23.—The director of the census today announced the official count of the 1910 census for the following counties: Texas—Howard county 8,881; Morris county, 10,438; Scurry county, 10,924.

Illinois—Adams county, 64,588. The certificates were issued under the requirements of the state law governing elections and the work in the census bureau was hastened in order that these figures might be supplied at the earliest possible date.

AVIATOR DASHED TO EARTH

ALDERSHOT, Eng., June 23.—Captain S. F. Cody, the American aviator, who has been experimenting with an aeroplane for the British war office, is believed to be in a dying condition this afternoon as the result of an accident on Laffan's Plain this morning, when his machine was dashed to earth. Captain Cody is a naturalized Englishman.

TARIFF GUILTY FOR HIGH PRICES

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—Declaring that the tariff is not to blame, a report on the cause of the high cost of living was made in the senate today by Lodge (R., Mass.) for his committee which investigated the subject.

Causes Judge Landis to

NEW GRAND JURY ORDERED

Federal Authorities will Make Corrections to Make Indictments
Stand Up

CHICAGO, June 23.—Judge Landis in the federal court today sustained the demurrer interposed by the packers against the indictment returned against the National Packing Company on the ground that it is a combination in restraint of trade. The court, however, ordered a special grand jury to convene July 14 to further investigate the case.

Landis held that the criminal indictment returned against the packers was not legal because it did not contain the averment that the combination in restraint of trade had been in existence within three years of when charges were made and that it was not alleged that the combination was engaged in interstate commerce.

United States District Attorney Sims, who secured the indictment of the packers, announced that he would at once make the necessary corrections in his bill against them and have it ready for presentation to the grand jury. A special venire of 75 was ordered drawn for the grand jury.

Not Sims' Fault
Friends of Dist. Atty. Sims pointed out that the federal prosecutor was not responsible for the faulty drawing of the indictment because it was prepared by an expert sent out by the attorney general's office at Washington.

That a deep investigation which may result in the indictment of individual packers besides the National and eleven subsidiaries named in the bill quashed today will be the outcome of today's ruling is the prediction made here. It is also reported that the alleged oleomargarine frauds will also be investigated by the new grand jury.

Besides the National Packing Company, the following companies were indicted: G. H. Hammond Company of Michigan; Fowler Packing Company of Kansas; United Dressed Beef Company of New York; St. Louis Dressed Beef and Provision Company of Missouri; Hammond Packing Company of Illinois; Omaha Packing Company of Illinois; Anglo-American Provision Company of Illinois; Western Packing Company of Colorado; Colorado Packing and Provision Company of Colorado; New York Butchers' Dressed Meat Company of New York.

COUNT ZEPPELIN HERO OF GERMANY

DUSSELDORF, Germany, June 23.—The Deutschland, the Lusitania of the sky, is tugging at her anchors today, ready for her 300 mile schedule return trip to Friedrichshafen with a score of first cabin passengers. Reports from the Berlin office indicate that bookings are being made several weeks in advance, prospective passengers fighting to pay $50 for the privilege of taking the air liner. The big dirigible will leave her moorings here early tomorrow morning and turn her prow toward the south. It is expected she will tie up to her floating pier in Lake Constance nine hours after her gangway is raised in this city.

The epoch making flight of yesterday has thrilled Germany and Count Zeppelin is the hero of the nation. The first passengers on the air liner are enthusiastic in praise of her performance.

"It seemed that we were anchored in the air and the world was passing in review beneath us," said one of them today. We simply sat in the magnificent appointed Pullman compartments amidship and viewed the panorama. Below us was the Rhine and its wonderful mountains. We passed over cities and open countries with equal facility. The vibration of the motors was the only sound that reached us. We maintained an average height of 300 feet. At times we traveled as fast as 44 miles an hour. Not once did we waver on our course. The great airship ran more smoothly than an ocean vessel."

LAWTON, Okla., June 23.—It was a hot, tired crowd of autoists that climbed into the cars today when the Glidden tourists resumed their trip from here toward Oklahoma City. But 14 cars resumed the trip this morning.

EXERCISES HELD AT 10 A. M.

Musical Program Supple-

Notable in Work are in Auditorium

The first annual commencement exercises of the La Crosse State Normal school, were held in the auditorium this morning, beginning at 10 o'clock, and the exercises were the culminating feature of a highly gratifying week to pupils, parents and faculty.

The audience comfortably filled the large room, and promptly at 10 o'clock the graduates entered to the soft strains of violin and piano rendered by Mrs. Homer Cotton and Miss Jacobson in the rear balcony. Seated on the stage with the graduating class were President F. A. Cotton of the normal school, Senator Thomas Morris, president of the state board of normal regents, Dr. E. A. Birge of the university of Wisconsin, who delivered the commencement address, and Rev. D. C. Jones of the First Presbyterian church, who gave the invocation.

The stage was cool and inviting with its pretty decoration of greenery. Graceful palms and ferns interspersed with stately bay trees formed a pleasing background for the dainty white dresses of the graduates, while a single tall brass vase of magnificent pink and white gladiolus gave a lovely touch of color to the platform.

The program was opened by "The Pilgrim's Chorus," sung by the school under the direction of Mrs. Homer Cotton, and which was wonderfully well done. The attacks were splendid and the soft passages well sustained. Following the invocation came the response by a double quartet.

The address by Dr. Birge was an inspiration, and in spite of the intense heat, the audience gave him their closest attention.

His subject was "The School and the Nation."

Dr. Birge began by citing the "University of Berlin," one of the greatest world institutions, which is celebrating its centennial this year. It was founded in 1810 "to restore a lost national life" and has steadily grown in the teachings of the spirit and the intellect, until at the present time the "nation of damned professors," as Lord Palmerston once dubbed Germany, has developed into the nation which is ready to take her place in the foremost ranks of every phase of life.

FOOD CHEAPER IN LONDON THAN HERE

And the Prevailing High Tariff Parties Are at Fault, Says Senator
W. R. Gaylord

State Senator W. R. Gaylord of Milwaukee addressed a small audience at the old Y. M. C. A. hall last night on the subject of socialism. There were only 47 in the audience, no doubt because of the extremely warm weather.

The senator was introduced by R. C. McCaleb, who preceded the introduction with a short explanation of the county platform of the party. A few points the socialists favor are regulation of taxation to prevent tax dodging, the eight-hour labor law and the closing of houses of ill repute on streets where children pass to and from their work.

Senator Gaylord started by stating that socialism was not an accident. "Socialism is coming now," said the speaker. He called socialism a matter of natural evolution. The speaker brought in the present high cost of living and stated that the ruling should control this state of affairs and that this party should be the socialists. "In London you can buy American-made bread with American wheat 40 per cent cheaper than you can on the streets of New York, and in London you can buy American beef 20 per cent cheaper than you can in New York."

Continuing the speaker delved into the condition in Milwaukee, stating that the party there, although greatly hampered by state laws, was already accomplishing things. He stated that the party had been accused of standing for the red flag. "Yes we do stand for the red flag," said the speaker. "They say the red flag is the flag of revolution, and we are also accused of stating that we would use bullets. If the need is great enough we will certainly use them." He explained that the desired result was, however, to be attempted by means of the ballot at the polls before any desperate means were tried. He also spoke about the state utility law and its failure of application in Milwaukee street car difficulties in regard to regulating time schedules. He declared that it was a failure and that is now about to be tested in telephone service. Mr. Gaylord continued for some time explaining the state work of the party, what they hoped to accomplish and what they would try to do. Home rule by the cities of the state was one of the important conditions advocated by the speaker. This and this only he said would make municipal government real.

Senator Gaylord is not a polished orator but he has an earnest and convincing manner that made a big impression with the audience, the greater part of which felt repaid for coming.

FUNCTIONS OF THE CHAUTAUQUA

Boon to the Busy Man;
Programs Abound in Music, Entertainment and Instruction

This is a busy world. This is also the busiest time a busy world ever knew. We are living at 50 miles per hour. We are going the gait that kills.

The wise man is he who early learns how to mix a good measure of enjoyment into his daily work. The man who knows how to enjoy himself well knows how to be a good producer of results in the working departments.

To supply the growing and legitimate demand for enjoyment, many devices have come into use. Many of these are good; some are of indifferent character while some are wholly bad. But the people are becoming more and more discriminating and only the best can long receive the sanction of our better grade of citizens.

One of the most potent agencies for dispensing wholesome diversion from the daily grind is the Chautauqua. This fact will readily become apparent to any one who will take the pains to study the program offered at our assembly this season. It is full of the most interesting, uplifting and restful things and must make a strong appeal to all.

But there is one important feature by which the Chautauqua is able to surpass the ordinary entertainment; and that is in the more substantial

Dandruff, Which is a Germ Disease—Kill the Germ

Falling hair is caused by dandruff, which is a germ disease. The germ in burrowing into the root of the hair, where it destroys the vitality of the hair, causing the hair to fall out, dig up the cuticle in little scales, called dandruff or scurf. You can't stop the falling hair without curing the dandruff, and you can't cure the dandruff without killing the dandruff germ. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." parts of the program. The Chautauqua entertains royally, but it imparts useful information as well. Here is one of the strongest arguments for its usefulness.

In addition to the fourteen fine musical programs there are four entertainment numbers, full of humor and snap. Then there are a number of strong lectures, built to deal with great themes but in a popular way suitable for hot weather. Included in this strong list are Senators Gore of Oklahoma and Clapp of Minnesota.

The Chautauqua will be a week of recreation, diversion, fun, oratory and instruction. The result will be inspiring, educational and restful. There can be no bad after effects and the community will be richer and better for having had the Chautauqua here.

WRIGHTS HONORED AFTER A DELAY

OVERLIN, O., June 23.—Orville and Wilbur Wright, Dayton aviators, with their sister, Miss Katherine, left here in a high rage today after being refused promised honorary degrees by the trustees of Oberlin College.

Following the departure of the Wright Brothers, pressure was brought to bear on the trustees of Oberlin college, who, in special session, granted the brothers the degree of doctor of laws. They were intercepted by telegraph enroute home and returned here to receive the honor.

THOMAS BROOKS FLETCHER

The coming of Thomas Brooks Fletcher to the La Crosse Chautauqua recalls the occasion when he jumped off a moving train in the switch yards in Omaha and chased a couple of rogues who had stolen his grips.

Out into the dark among the box cars, Fletcher went flying, overtook the miscreants, and overpowering them completely, recovered his grips and carried them back to the railway station.

The nerve, ginger, pluck and power so evident on that occasion manifested themselves in his platform lectures. He goes at it barefisted. He does not know the meaning of fear. He is full of action and his works are rich in results. He is one of the

AUTO OVERTURNED; NO ONE IS INJURED

Louis Linker and four little girls had a narrow escape from being killed in an automobile accident last evening on the Minnesota side of the river, when the machine backed off the embankment, down an incline of 25 feet and turned turtle. The occupants were pinned under the machine but were rescued uninjured. Mr. Linker went to the public baths last evening to get his two little daughters and two neighbor girls. After the girls boarded the car, Mr. Linker attempted to turn around on the road, when the wheels dropped down and pulled the machine over the embankment.

MINNESOTA AND THE NORTHWEST

CARTER IS NAMED PRESIDENT AGAIN

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 23.—The election of the international officers of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen was begun late yesterday when W. S. Carter was re-elected president and C. A. Wilson assistant president. Both were voted for by acclamation, there being no contest for the places.

The completion of the report of the board of appeals and the partial completion of those of the committees on constitution and by laws and welfare of the order were the chief matters of importance which came up. As yet there has been no balloting on the recommendations of the committees. Following the election of officers, which should be finished today, the voting will be taken up.

A feature of the closing days may be an address by W. C. Brown, president of the New York Central lines, who is a visitor in the city.

According to Moon's statement, all the members of the family were satisfied with the proposed marriage except the father, who had not been informed. Y., including the creation of social centers, the development of the playground idea and the organization of neighborhood civic clubs, has attracted attention all over the country, has been engaged as a member of the extension division staff of the University of Wisconsin. His connection with the university will begin July 1.

About 200 acres is to be cleared for the camp. A contract for a ten inch artesian well, a storage tank and pumping station, has also been awarded. A bakery is to be established and a complete system of baths installed.

DRAMA PRESENTED AT COMMENCEMENT

An elaborate program was carried out at St. Wenceslaus school last evening, when fifteen pupils were graduated and received their diplomas. One of the interesting features of the program was the class play entitled "The Unknown Martyr," given in four acts and a tableau.

The diplomas were presented by Bishop James Schwebach to the following graduates: Barbara Stupka, Mary Prucha, Anna Kreutz, Helen Hruska, Luella Wseteka, Mary Rogner, Rita Buzek, Lucy Pobresko, John Satek, George Kreutz, Emil Tikal, Joseph Bruha, William Tomsicek, Chas. Beranek, Frank Brady.

PRETTY WEDDING AT LA CRESCENT

At 9 o'clock Tuesday morning occurred the marriage of Sophia Tschumper and Earl Kathman at the Catholic church of La Crescent, the ceremony being performed by Father Dolle. The bride was becomingly attired in white. The couple was attended by the Misses Sophia Graf and Maud Kathman, and Messrs. Geo. Tschumper and Walter Kathman. After the ceremony the newly wedded couple left for the Twin Cities for a short visit. Both young people are from South Ridge, where they are well and favorably known. They will make their home on a farm on South Ridge.

S.S.S. CURES S.S.S. MALARIA

Malaria is a species of blood poverty known as anaemia. It is a condition in which the circulation is so weak and impure that it is unable to supply the system with sufficient nourishment and strength to preserve ordinary health.

The medical profession is divided in opinion as to the manner in which malarial poison gets into the blood. Some take the position that it is an atmospheric poison, the specific germs of which are breathed into the lungs and thus transmitted to the circulation. Others advance the opinion that persons become inoculated with the poison through the bites of mosquitoes. All however agree that MALARIA is a blood affection, and any treatment to successfully overcome it must not only purify this vital fluid, but at the same time add the necessary qualities of richness and strength to the circulation.

The malarial poison destroys large numbers of the rich, red corpuscles of the circulation, and the peculiar paleness of anemic persons is due to this fact. In the first stages of Malaria there is a bilious condition of the system, constant bodily weakness, poor appetite, and a "no account," tired feeling.

S.S.S. searches out and destroys every particle of malarial infection and builds the blood up to a healthy, nourishing condition. Then the system receives its required nutriment, the bright red corpuscles begin to multiply in the circulation, sallow complexions grow ruddy and flushed with health, the liver and digestion are righted, the appetite improved, and the system vitalized and refreshed in every way. S.S.S. is a safe and pleasant remedy as well as an efficient one. If you have Malaria we will be glad to have you write us describing the case. We will send free our book on the blood and at the same time our physicians will give you some medical advice that will be of great service to you in curing yourself with S.S.S. No charge for the book or advice.

A PHYSICAL WRECK.

During 1900 I was running a farm on the Mississippi River, and became so impregnated with malaria that for a year afterwards I was a physical wreck. I took a number of medicines recommended as blood purifiers, but nothing did me any good until I began to use S.S.S., which I did about a year ago. The result was that after taking several bottles of the largest size I was as well and strong as I ever was, and have never had S.S.S. every year as a preventive, and would advise everybody else to follow my example.

A BIG, NECESSARY JOB

Of the numerous indictments of the house fly, none is more terribly graphic and convincing than a brief epitome of the vices of this pest found in the current number of The Ladies' Home Journal. The thing is positively gruesome in its portrayal of the devilment in which the filthy insect engages for our un-doubt, and is withal so logical as to repulse the approach of consoling doubt, to challenge mitigation and defy refutation. Officer, do your duty! We shudder as we quote:
"A fly's favorite food is what the human being discards and revolts

at: garbage, animal and human excrement, and every form of decaying matter. Its favorite haunt is the manure-heap and the garbage-pail.
It walks over this mess, and with its feet and legs laden with what sticks to them it comes into our houses and walks on our food, in our milk and on the tender skin of a baby. It has been estimated that a fly just back from its favorite haunts, at the height of the summer,
carries on its feet more dangerous
germs than have ever been found in a single drop of the worst city milk. By this very simple means the fly was found last summer in New York City to have been the direct cause of thousands of fatal cases of dysentery, cholera infantum and typhoid fever with babies.
For a long time it was believed that hot weather was responsible for the deaths of so many infants during summer; now we know better. Undoubtedly the heat, and all that goes with it, is disastrous to a good many children, but the fly is now recognized as a far greater and more serious factor, second only, even if it be that, to polluted water or milk."

But hold! Joy! Reading on we learn that, "The fly can be got rid of." Don't trifle by offering carping criticism of faulty rhetorical construction in a great family journal! Grasp the immensity of the promise! Rejoice, and then read on, as did we, and let your hopes be dashed by the greater immensity
of the process of extermination:

"This fact (that the fly can be got rid of) was proved in England, where, fifty years ago, flies were a nuisance and as great a danger as they are now in America. Today, broadly speaking, England is so thoroughly rid of flies that the English rarely screen their houses. How did the English do it? As we must do it: by each family keeping its house clean. Screens will keep flies out of a house and fly-paper will kill them. But neither gets at the cause. There is only one way to do away with flies, and that is to keep clean the places where they breed and love to feed.

"Manure-heaps of horses or cattle should be kept in covered pits,
bins or fly-proof closets, and stables and pens must be kept clean of manure.

"Outside lavatories should be kept clean and all excrement covered up or drenched with poisons, lime or oil.

"Kitchen refuse should be placed in closed, cleanly kept garbage-cans.
"All decaying matter should be buried or burned.

"All receptacles, such as cuspid-ors, should be kept clean.
"Until we are clean ourselves we cannot keep healthy, and until we keep our houses clean we cannot keep away the flies.

"If there are flies around or in your house either you or your neighbor is careless with regard to absolute cleanliness. And until the flies are got rid of, as they can be with care and watchfulness, a positive danger to your own health and the health of your wife and children
confronts you."

Looking about us through the vistas of dung heaps, peering into the garbage strewn alleys, viewing the can littered back yards, inhaling the fumes of careless cookery on city street and country road—how can we face the task of starving the festive house fly? We joke in the dare-devil spirit of the man on the scaffold, for it is indeed a serious question; we laugh in the face of an adversity that robs our grin of mirth. In the rush for wealth, the quest for excitement, the search for pleasure, the dislike of domestic detail that are characteristic of the American of today, how can we encompass this conquest that was possible for our more methodical and painstaking fatherland? It should be done, it must be done, but the doing amounts to a national reformation, unless indeed some genius shall save the day and win a Carnegie medal by achieving a fly-size Rough on Rats.

UNFAIR AND UNFORTUNATE

The German people are justified
in their resentment of the widely circulated story to the effect that over indulgence in beer has reduced the kaiser to precarious health, and in fairness to the brewers, against whose business there is being urged much opposition, it must be said
that their feeling that such stories,
when unfounded, should not be given publicity, is right. If they are prepared to meet the truth fairly and squarely, they should not be compelled to combat falsehood.

The German people are a beer drinking people, but there is unquestionable evidence that even in relation to a drink that may properly be referred to as his national beverage the kaiser is habitually temperate. So true is this fact that discriminating brewers in this country have declined to permit the use of his name in advertisements of their product. The dissemination of this recent canard, given out upon alleged medical authority, but immediately
proved to have no such foundation,
was doubly an impropriety because of this appearance of scientific accuracy falsely given to it.

THEY NEED A PRIMARY

In Minnesota a republican convention has endorsed Taft and the tariff, and stood pat in the standpatist
way, the only grain of consolation
gleamed by the progressive element being found in the endorsement of the vigorously insurgent Senator Moses Clapp.

This illustrates well the injustice of the convention system, and should inspire the voters of Minnesota to make an irresistible demand for a complete primary election law.
The state is insurgent to the core.
An overwhelming majority of its republicans exorcise the Taft tariff, and are anywhere from positively hostile to apathetic in relation to Taft himself.
But the steel trust is in politics in Minnesota; Jim Hill and the railroads are in politics there. With powerful organizations they have been able to make a great party convention declare against that party's interest and in favor of the corporations and monopolies.

The "defense" of Lee O'Neill
Browne, charged with bribery in connection with the election of United States Senator William Lorimer, is all in. Justice would seem to expect that Browne, also, is "all in." The "defense" consisted in villifying witnesses for the state.

Well, how much is Mr. Connor prepared to spend to lose La Crosse county? It cost Stephenson between $3,000 and $4,000. The boys here are still faithful, if few, and they are ready for the melon cutting.

quent terms to both the head and

SPOTLIGHTS

THE SCHIAOVNI TROUPE
The Schiaovni troupe of six acrobats, which is showing at the Majestic theater this week, is without the slightest degree of doubt the best that has ever been placed before local footlights. It is an act that is creating much comment in the city and one which is proving its value
by the crowds which it is drawing daily.

When the curtain rises, a neat scene is depicted on the stage. It represents an open air cafe with its splendid scenery showing a couple seated and waiters respectfully attending. Then the fun begins in such a rapid manner that it is hard to realize that the setting has been placed for a troupe of acrobats. They introduce all sorts of ground
tumbling and aerial head and hand balancing.

The act is remarkable for the fact that it has with it one of the strongest women in the world. The young lady is the best specimen of physical womanhood that has ever stepped upon a La Crosse stage. That she is strong can easily be understood when it becomes known that she catches two spinning acrobats,
each weighing more than 130 pounds and then raising them each on a hand at arm's length, carries them about the stage. But to make the point stronger still she takes two of the men let them stand on one of her shoulders, each man mounting on the other. Instead of being overly large and slow as many would imagine, the young lady is symmetrically and generously built but not very tall. She is also a clever acrobat and performs many feats that

That Settled It

Superintendent of Insurance William H. Hotchkiss said at a dinner in New York:
"There are not so many people
buying annuities from the insurance companies as there used to be. This, perhaps, speaks well for human nature. An annuity holder, you know, is apt to be selfish.

"I heard the other day, though,
of an annuity holder against whom the charge of selfishness could not be brought.
"This man lived on and on. Year after year his annuity was paid. Finally, when his age seemed about 110, the company sent a special agent to his house to make sure that James Montrose in his proper person was really getting annuity.

"The agent found James Montrose, an aged man, but hale, making a chicken coop in the backyard.

"Are you Mr. James Flabb Montrose?" he asked.

"Yes, sir; I am," the old man answered.

"Are you the Mr. Montrose who draws the annuity from the Dash company?"

"Yes, sir, I am and my father
before me," said the old man.—

cape," concluded the man telling his adventure.
"And what did you do?" inquired
the interested listener.

An Extenuating Condition

When John Corbett, the Chicago
contractor and well known democratic politician, was associated with George W. Jackson in the construction of the various Chicago tunnels
he took a personal interest in his employees, particularly where the character of the work was dangerous.

During the construction of the subway Mr. Corbett noticed two of his men, Jim Clancy and Mike Casey—carelessly shifting a couple of cans
of dynamite to another section of the tunnel.

"Here, boys, look here," warned
Mr. Corbett, "you've got to be more careful with that dynamite. You're handling it like a bucket of mortar.
Why, don't you know the last time
there was a dynamite explosion here
ten men were killed?"

"Shure, Mr. Corbett," whispered
Clancy, "T'won't be so bad this time.
There's only two av us."—Mack's
National Monthly.

The Retort Direct

"See here!" cried the artist, who had come to complain about the materials he had bought. "I can't am-agine anything worse than your paints."

"That's strange," replied the dealer, "don't you ever use your imagination on your painting?"—Catholic Standard and Times.

The Billet Doux

An actor, named Smith for the purpose of this story, went to his club one day and found a letter for another actor of the same name. The letter was from a tailor and read as follows: "Dear Sir: Your account is now eighteen months overdue, and unless you pay at once we shall put it in the hands of our attorney for collection."

The first Smith knew the letter wasn't for him, and he put it in another envelope, addressed it to the Smith for whom it was intended and sat down to read his own mail.

In a few minutes the other Smith came along. He took the letter from the tailor, tore it open and read it,
while leaning against the mantel.
Then, smiling tenderly, he tore it into little pieces and, as he threw the scraps into the fireplace, said so everybody in the room could hear him:
"Silly little girl! How she loves me!"—Saturday Evening Post.

ting acquainted until the discovery
is made of a similarity in their troubles. Then they clasp hands and

GOOSE GIRL

"Your Highness sent for me?"
"I did. Why the devil couldn't you have left well enough alone?
Read this!" flinging the note down on his desk.

Herbeck picked it up and worked out the creases. When he had read to the final word, his hand, even as the duke's, closed spasmodically over the stiff paper.

"Well?" The query tingled with rage.

The answer on the chancellor's lips was not uttered. Hildegarde came in. She blew a kiss at her father, who caught the hand and drew her toward him. He embraced her and kissed her brow.

"What is it, father?"
Herbeck waited.

"Read," said the duke.

As the last word left Herbeck's lips, she slipped from her father's arms and looked with pity at the chancellor.

"What do you think of this, Hildegarde?"

"Why, father, I think it is the very best thing in the world," dryly.
"An insult like this," the duke
grew rigid. "You accept it calmly,
in this fashion?"

"Shall I weep and tear my hair
over a boy I have never seen? No, thank you. I was about to make known to you this very evening that I had reconsidered the offer. I shall never marry his majesty."

"A fine time!" The duke's hand trembled. "Why, in God's name, did you not refuse when the overtures were first made? The truth, Herbeck, the whole truth; for there is something more than this."

Herbeck, in few words and without evasion, explained the situation.

"Your Highness, the regent is really bent on blame, for his majesty had given him free rein in the matter, and his royal highness, working as I have been for the best interests of the two countries, never dreamed that the king would rebel.

All my heart and all my mind have been working toward this end, toward a greater peace and prosperity.
The king has been generous enough
to leave the publicity in our hands;
that is to say, he agrees to accept the humiliation of being rejected by her serene highness."

"That is very generous of him!"
said the duke sarcastically. "Send for Ducwitz."

"Ducwitz, your Highness?" cried
the chancellor, chilled.

"Immediately!"

"Father!"

"Must I give an order twice?"

"Your Highness, if you call Duc-witz I shall surrender my portfolio to you." The chancellor spoke without anger, quietly but firmly.

"Do so. There are others to take up your work." The duke, for the moment, had thrown reason to the winds. Revenge, the clamor of revenge, was all the voice he heard.

The chancellor bowed, turned to leave the room, when Hildegarde flew to the duke's side and snatched at his sleeve.

"Father, you are mad!"

"At least I am master of Ehrenstein. Herbeck, you will have the kindness to summon General Duc-witz."

"Your Highness," replied Her-beck, "I have worked long and faithfully in your service. I can not recollect that I ever asked one personal favor. But I do so now.
Do not send for Ducwitz tonight.
See him in the morning. This is no time for haste. You will throw the army into Jugendheit, and I have will follow a bloody war. For I have to inform you that the prince regent, recognizing the false position he is in, has taken the ram by the horns. His troops are already bivouached on the other side of the pass. This I learned today. He will not strike first; he will wait for you."

"I will have my revenge!" stubbornly.

"Father, listen to me. I am the affronted person; I, I alone, have the right to say what shall be done in the matter. And I say to you if you do these cruel things, dismiss his excellency and bring war and death to Ehrenstein. I will never forgive you, never, never! You are wrong, wrong, and I, your daughter, tell you so frankly. Leave it to me. There will be neither war nor humiliation."

As the duke gazed at her the wrath gathering in his throat. He recoiled and his admiration grew. His daughter! She was a princess, indeed, as she stood there, fearless, resolute, beautiful. And her very beauty gave recurrence to his wrath.
A fool of a king he was, a fool of a king!

"My dear child," he said, "I have suffered too much at the hands of Jugendheit. It was my daughter the

Axel Lindstrom, Employed by Milwaukee Road on Double Track, Killed Near Winona

The body of Axel Lindstrom, a laborer working for the Milwaukee road on the double tracking near Winona, was found yesterday near that city between the main passenger tracks of the road and a switch track. He had evidently been struck by an east bound Milwaukee train during the night and instantly killed. When the body was found Coroner Schaefer of Winona was brought to the scene and after viewing the remains he was of the opinion that the man had been killed by a train. The body was taken to Winona where it is being held pending word from a sister living in North Dakota.

One side of the face is smashed and the forehead is crushed. There is also a fracture at the base of the skull.

It was with difficulty that the man was identified as he had worked under various names. His identity was however established when a friend of the deceased was communicated with.

Lindstrom had been working with the large number of section hands which are completing the double track work on the Milwaukee road north of this city.

CORNELL CREW NOT UP TO STANDARD

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 23.—The five crews that are to row in Saturday's collegiate regatta will be given only the lightest work from now on. Practically all the men of the various boats are about on edge and the coaches are afraid of throwing them out of condition by working them hard in the extreme heat.

The ragged form displayed by the Ithacans the past week has puzzled everyone, apparently, except the veteran Courtney.

OUTCASTS WIN
FROM WINONA

Whittaker Works Well with Excellent Support, and the Pirates Lose 4 to 0

JOEITES GET FOUR HITS First Baseman Curtis Stars with the Willow for Winona, Getting Three of the Swats

Bots Whittaker pitching in gilded form and having good support behind him at the critical moments, pulled the second exhibition of the national pastime with the Winona aggregation to the won column for the Outcasts by the score of 4 to 0, smearing the calcimine in the eyes of Killian and his Pirates real thick and nasty-like.

There wasn't much hitting on the Winona side to speak of. Just four of the bingles got safe and one of them was real scratchy. Curtis, the Winona first sacker, who for a while was relegated to the shelf to allow Solbraa to cover the initial corner, willowed into the three of the pills for as many safe wallops. Curtis seems to be about the most consistent hitter with the Joeites at the present stage of the season.

Big "Honus" Wagner not the real Pirate from Pittsburgh, a former bush leaguer, was easy for the Outcasts. They connected with everything he had, salivated pellets, curves, drops and all, at the times when the bingles were needed and the big hurler was rather wild at times, too, thus assisting in his own annihilation.

It was a fast game, lasting one hour and forty minutes. The attendance was small.

The First Runs The Outcasts scored first in the third round of the contest. Kuehn, first up, hit one to second base and was sacrificed to second by Whittaker. Connell skied one just over the infield into the sun garden and Kuehn trying to score was caught at the plate. Wagner failed to locate the rubber and Ward received free transportation. Connell stole third and a moment later Ward committed larceny by pilfering the second sack. Doll uncorked the winning hit in right field, scoring Biddy and Ward. Safford struck out.

The fireworks then ceased for the moment and there was nothing in the shape of runs until the sixth, when Zalusky poled a terrific timber bumper into center field and when the ball was returned to the diamond Jawn reposed in safety on third. Klein scored him with a neat single in right field, and a moment later ended the inning by allowing Killian to throw him out at second when he tried to steal.

In the eighth Wagner began to locate everything but the plate. Connell, first up, walked and died trying to steal second. Ward lined out a torrid sizzler which Goodman failed to jarle in the approved style and Ed was safe on first. Doll advanced him to third by grounding out to Davey. The Saxon slab worker then walked Safford and Ward scored when Zalusky poled out a fly so high that even Graves dropped it when it came to earth. Klein received a walk from Blody Wagner and Wais finished up by striking out. Winona was unable to do a thing in the last round and the game ended with the score 4 to 0, favoring the Outcasts.

CHARLES LINES; PIONEER IS DEAD

Well Known Dairyman
 Passes Away This Morning at His Home After Lingerin Illness

After an illness of about three weeks, Charles Lines, pioneer of La Crosse county and one of the best known dairymen of the northwest,
 died at 1 o'clock this morning at his home on the State Road Coulee road, aged 75 years.

A year ago last winter Mr. Lines was taken ill while attending a farmers' institute and for a while his condition was quite critical. He recovered, however, and was able to attend to his regular duties, but about four weeks ago he was again taken ill and for three weeks he was confined to his bed. His condition steadily grew worse until he died this morning.

Charles Lines was born in Saxony, Germany, July 5, 1835, and was the oldest of five children. He attended school in his native country and in 1848 his parents, William and Ida (Kuehn) Lines, emigrated to the United States, settling in Jefferson county, Wis., where they remained one year. From there they moved to Columbia county, near Portage, Wis., and lived there until 1853, when they came to La Crosse county.

The family settled on a farm in Mormon Coulee where deceased lived up to about twelve years ago, when he moved to a farm on the State Road Coulee road, where he conducted a modern dairy farm up to the time of his death. Mr. Lines was always interested in dairying and was one of the best dairymen in the state.

Mr. Lines was united in marriage in 1864 to Miss Julia Tausche. To them were born nine children, five of whom are now living. They are Charles, William, Joseph and Mrs.
 Anna Schamms and Mrs. Ida Smoker.
 The mother of these children died in 1879.

Mr. Lines was married a second time in 1884 to Miss Marguerite Pfund and of this union four children were born, Adolph, Julia, Matilda and Marguerite.

Decedent was for many years chairman of the town of Shelby and a member of the county board or supervisors. He took an active interest in county affairs and was the one who proposed the building of the Mormon Coulee road over the prairie.

Previous to the laying out of this road teams drove all over the prairie and it was the desire of Mr. Lines to have a road constructed that would be permanent.

He was one of the organizers of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company, organized in 1875, and was its president for many years. He was a republican and took an interest in politics. He was a member of the German Lutheran church.

The funeral will be held from the house Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

 spector in charge of the station

 meeting for the inspectors in charge of stations west of the Mississippi river. During the absence of Inspector Dell, Dr. Clark of St. Paul will be in charge of the local station.
 Dr. Dell will go to Philadelphia via London, Canada, where he will visit his mother, and returning he will ing a side trip from Philadelphia to cis hospital to the home of Mr. Murphy, 501 Cass street. Besides chil-

NEGRO LAWLESS THREATENS CO

Big Smoke Resists Arres-
 and Threatens to Kill Policeman but Is Taken to the Jail

(By Tip Wright.)
JOHNSON'S TRAINING QUAR-TERS, Seal Rock House, San Francisco, June 23.—George Little is again Jack Johnson's manager. Figures of the settlement are not given out but it is believed Johnson agreed to pay Little $31,000 on the original contract.

Johnson will have to appear in court to answer to serious charges before he goes to Reno. The black's arrest was thrilling, guns being drawn and threats made.

Johnson came into the city yesterday to get Al Kaufman. On the ocean boulevard his car sped along at 60 miles an hour. Mounted Policeman Lewis motioned Johnson to slow down but the black paid no attention. Johnson had hardly arrived at the Seal Rock House when Lewis dashed up and grabbed Johnson by the arm.

Johnson grew angry. "You cannot arrest me," he shouted, but the policeman's answer was to seize him by the arm. Johnson threw him of saying: "Take your hands off me or I'll kill you."

Johnson made for his room and locked the door. Lewis left, but returned in a few moments with two other officers. He kicked in the door and the three officers entered, revolvers in hand. They backed Johnson into a corner and placed him
 under arrest.

Chief of Police Martin, who was notified, called the officers down for breaking in the door and released Johnson on $50 cash bail. Enroute to jail to give bond Johnson broke all speed limits.

BLITZ and BLATZ

Blitz—Say Blatz, I heard your wife say to my wife something about Paris getting crazy. What mean
 it. What has transacted there?
 Blatz—Ach, you muttonhead, that was about some perfume what I called "Paris Craze." My wife bought some at Beyschlag's drug store and showed it to your wife.
 You heard just about enough of the conversation to know nothing, as usual is with you.

Blitz—Aha, so is it, what?
 Blatz—Yes. That "Paris Craze"
 is the finest hot weather perfume what is. It has a delicious and lasting smelling, and is from Paris.
 Hence "Paris Craze."

Blitz—I know now what I am about. Immediately I will buy some and surprise Mrs. Blitz with it. Good bye, alter knabe!

ELEVEN MILLION WORDS ARE USED

Congress Has Talked Its "Head Off" and Spent $1,074,000,000 of the People's Money

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—This session of congress, which is about ready to quit, after having spent $1,074,000,000 of the people's money, has been the wordiest on record. The congressional record has already reached 9,000 pages and will probably total 10,000. A page contains more words than the average newspaper column.

Figuring that only 6,000 pages were devoted to speeches and debates—the other 4,000 to records—the statesmen uttered a mere matter of 10,800,000 words during the session. Bills introduced in the house during the present session number 20,065 and in the senate 8,800; thousands of these were pension and private claim bills. Of those intended for the general good, 13 house and 83 senate bills have become laws. Three treaties of no great importance have been ratified by the senate which also confirmed 10,800 appointments by the president. This number is also a record.

AFFILIATED AERO CLUBS TO JOIN

NEW YORK, June 23.—The national council of affiliated bodies of the Aero club of America, organized last night, will meet late this afternoon with the American Aero club of America to effect permanent organization. The American Aeronautic Federation, the seceding body, is scheduled to hold another meeting on August 22 but it is probable the latter organization will not long survive, many of its members having joined the national council.

According to the plans of the Aero club and the national council of affiliated clubs, which comprises the majority of aero clubs in America, the Aero club of America will have charge of all international aviation meets held in America, while the national council will have charge of the national meeting. As the Aero club of America is affiliated with the Aero club of France, the aero club and the national council will probably be recognized by most foreign and American aviators.

SAM HILL BOUND OVER FOR TRIAL

Claiming that he pulled a revolver in self defense, Sam Hill, a colored roustabout, charged with assault with attempt to do great bodily harm, took the witness stand in county court this morning and told his story. Hill is charged with attempting to shoot Sandy Brown, another colored man, employed as fireman on the steamer Sidney. It is charged that Hill was going through Brown's trunk and the latter told him to keep away from it. In about fifteen minutes Hill returned and Brown went up to him and slapped him in the face, whereupon Hill pulled a revolver from his pocket and pulled the trigger four times, but the weapon failed to go off. Brown then kicked it out of Hill's hand. Hill then jumped off the boat and ran away. He was later captured in the Burlington railroad yards on the North side.

Hill was held for trial in the circuit court, bail being fixed at $1,000.

NEW SUITS OVER SWOPE ESTATE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 23.—Another suit against the Swope estate is threatened by Felix Swope of Midway, Ky., who has given notice that he is not satisfied with the $10,000 given him and the granting of one-tenth of the residuary estate which brings his share to $142,000. He says he intends to bring suit and an effort will be made to settle with him out of court.

Elmer Swope of Martinsburg, W. Va., claims the entire estate on the ground that he is Col. Swope's son.

REDMOND'S VERSION OF AUTO SMASH

Editor Tribune.

I would like to make an explanation with reference to Dr. Kinnear's statement contained in your paper of the 22nd inst., in which he denies the fact that he crashed into Mr. Merman's car in which was riding, and by reason of which I was thrown out of the Merman car and against that of Dr. Kinnear's. As the result of Dr. Kinnear's striking that of Mr. Merman, I have suffered an injury which will prevent me from following my vocation as express messenger for some time to come, and will necessitate medical treatment for some period. It was very evident to any bystander that Dr. Kinnear struck our car with all the force possible, inasmuch as Mr. Merman's car was turned completely around.

When the Kinnear car struck ours I was thrown out on the side and against the Kinnear car. It is futile to say that Dr. Kinnear was running at the rate of six miles an hour, for if he had been, it must be assumed that he could have stopped, and would not have wantonly run us down, or permitted us to run into him. Mr. Merman's car is equipped with a speedometer, and was had been running considerably below speed limit.

The only excuse for the article contained in last night's paper is that Dr. Kinnear attempts to justify his conduct, but to those who hear his language, when he was informed that I was injured, and needed medical attention, his sincerity must be questioned. Instead of lending assistance to me he made the brutal remark that "he did not care if he had killed me."

The manner of the accident is sufficient to show that the fault lay not with Mr. Merman, but in the reckless driving of Dr. Kinnear.

CONGRESS STARTS "FILIBUSTERING"

Senator Burton of Ohio Starts Two-Day Speech Against Forest Reserve Bill

MAY HOLD A NIGHT SESSION

Representative Weeks Is Equally as Determined the Measure Shall Become a Law

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—When Senator Burton of Ohio, arose in the senate today to make a "few remarks" on the bill to create mountain forest reserves, he had in mind a speech to last two days. The only questions are whether his power will be equal to the strain or whether the senate decides upon a night session. In the latter contingency it would be one very long speech instead of two speeches covering as many sessions.

Senator Burton's oratorical preparations gave full notice that he did not like the bill; also that he hoped the threatened consumption of so much time in this heated speech when all congressmen are panting to go home would induce them to lay the bill over until next winter.

On the other hand Representative Weeks (Mass.) has issued a ultimatum that congress shall not adjourn until it has passed the bill. So with Weeks' filibustering to force congress to pass the bill and Burton filibustering to prevent them, statesmen faced a peculiar problem.

The bill proposes that the government shall co-operate with states and private land owners in maintaining forest reserves at the headquarters of the rivers in the southern Appalachians and the White mountains. It applies to other parts of the country, but the two projects are the only ones now in view.

They have been pressed by powerful influences for years. Bills to carry out the plan have been passed by the senate three times and once by the house, but the two branches never acted in the same congress.

McKinley, Roosevelt and Taft recommended the passage of the bills. The argument in favor of the enterprise is that the measure will conserve the timber, protect the watersheds of individual streams and prevent the destruction of agricultural lands by floods resulting from denuded water sheds.

The bill appropriated $200,000 to enable the secretary of agriculture to co-operate with states or private owners of forested watersheds to protect the forests from fire. He also may enter into agreements to administer private forest lands.

It is also provided that there shall be appropriated $1,000,000 next year and $2,000,000 annually until 1916 for the purchase by the government of lands situated at the headwaters of navigable streams, or those which may be made navigable. These purchases are to be subject to the approval of a commission consisting of the secretaries of war, interior and agriculture, two senators and two representatives. The secretary of agriculture is given authority to divide the lands into national forests. An appropriation of $25,000 a year is made to pay the expenses of the commission.

spirit of every school and every state be formed along the lines of intellectual power, and the ehings of the intellect be considered if we are to succeed as a nation.

The school system must be strong for tomorrow as well as for today—we must forecast the future. We ought to have trade schools, continuation schools and evening schools said Dr. Birge. The high school exists not only for the community where it is but for the state and nation as well. Those states which have the wisdom to see that the cultivation of the spirit, intellect and intelligence count for most will have the mastery of the future.

Speaking more directly to the graduates, Dr. Birge said that the great object of the teacher should be to interest the children. If a teacher cannot do this, he or she cannot do much for them in any way.

When the boy feels the same sort of shame at missing his Caesar, that he does at fumbling the ball on the football field, then says Dr. Birge, there is some hope for the teacher.

A good idea which has been advanced is that of having the normal schools take the first two years of college training, this being the general training, then having the last two years' work done at the university, which is more the professional training. This, says Dr. Birge, would be an ideal arrangement.

Following the address the girl's Glee club gave Louis Ganne's arrangement of the "Russian Holiday Chorus." It was given with spirit and expression, but was somewhat marred by fluting.

President Cotton in his remarks at the close of the exercises said the year had been a record breaker for a first year in a normal school. Peculiarly successful in every department has the school been; starting with an enrollment of 176, it today numbers 275. Then with a few earnest remarks to the graduates, President Cotton handed them their diplomas.

Those receiving the sheepskin in the English course were:

Minnie Kyle Dauffenbach, August: Mabel Hanson, Blair; Ruth Lillian Hillard, Durand; Anne V. Kinnear, La Crosse; Inez Thompson, Blair; Jessie May Trane, La Crosse; Herbert E. Wheaton, La Crosse.

Those in the German course: Catherine Herbert, Arcadia, and Pearl W. Norris, La Crosse. Those in the elementary course: Josephine Mahoney, La Crosse; Loren Van Gordon, Alma Center, while Jay H. McCormick of Soldiers Grove completed the Latin course.

DAUGHTER OF NEW YORK MAYOR ELOPES

NEW YORK, June 23.—Because she dreaded an elaborate public function which would have been necessary if her wedding had been formal, was the reason assigned by Mrs. Harry K. Vingt for her elopement to Wilmington, Del., where she was married last night. Mrs. Vingt, who was Edith Augusta Gaynor, second daughter of Mayor Gaynor, is stopping at the Plaza hotel with her husband, who is a millionaire broker and horseman. When seen today she had just called her father on the telephone and declared that he had fully forgiven her for her hasty wedding.

"People don't know my father," she declared, "and you have to know him well to understand him. When I told him of our wedding he said: 'Whatever you do, my girl, is all right.'"

Mrs. Vingt is the second one of Mayor Gaynor's children to elope. His son, Rufus Gaynor, eloped on December 10, 1908, with Maria Giuffi, daughter of a barber of New London, Conn. Their wedding was annulled in April last, when it was shown that Miss Giuffi had a previous husband living when the ceremony was performed.

COLLECTORS GRAB INDIANS' MONEY

TULSA, Okla., June 23.—Alice Wilson of Coweta, an aunt of Senator R. L. Owen, received the first check in the big Cherokee payment which was opened in the central square here with 5,000 Indians packed about the government building to receive their money. Hundreds of Indians slept in the public square while others curled up on door steps.

This is the first payment the Cherokees have received and the city is overrun with collectors who have advanced money to the Indians.

Each one makes a dive for a red man as he emerges from the booth. One collector has $40,000 due him in such accounts.

MURDERER TAKEN ON LINER TODAY

Patrick Hayes, Jr., of the Hoboken police, was the only witness when Charlton was arraigned.

Seems Like Dream
"I have made a clean breast of this affair and I feel a whole lot better," said Charlton. "I was in a daze when I killed my wife. It all seems like something like a dream to me. I can remember it all vaguely but it seems like something I have dreamed. It does not seem like it happened in my life. I loved my wife and I know she loved me. Despite our great love, it seemed we quarreled all the time. It seemed that everything I did threw her into a frenzy and I was just as bad. It was our tempers that caused this crime. I don't want to make any defense. I don't care what they do with me. There is no death punishment in Italy. I remember that from the time the anarchist killed King Humbert; I am willing to go back to Italy and stand trial but I hope they will make the trial short. I shall plead guilty and I guess they will sentence me to life imprisonment. That won't mean long for me, for the doctors say close consumption will mean galloping consumption. It'll soon be over with me, anyhow."

Reads Own Confession
At this Chief Hayes stumbled while reading that portion of Charlton's confession which the youth had written himself. Charlton stepped from the newspaper man's side and walked to the witness stand. "Let me help you, chief," he said, taking the paper from the officer's hand and reading, in a clear voice, without a trace of emotion:

"I have no defense to make and wish to make none," he read, and then added: "I certainly wish to make no defense now or at any other time."

"Stands" for Picture
Judge McGovern turned to him and asked him if he objected to standing back while the newspaper photographers snapped him.

"Not in the least," answered the murderer. He took up his position and changed his head to various poses to suit the picture men.

Then he again took the confession he had dictated and pointed to several typographical errors which had been made by the stenographer. He asked that these be changed. Chief Hayes then asked that Charlton be remanded until some word from the state department was received. He was accordingly sent to a cell until tomorrow morning until 10 o'clock. Charlton's pocket knife was taken from him and his belt and suspenders removed so that he might not injure himself in his cell. No charge has been placed against him. He is held as a fugitive from justice pending advices to the state department from Italy.

Credit Victim's Brother
The arrest of Charlton was due mainly to the work of Captain Henry Harrison Scott of the United States army who has worked day and night in an effort to land his sister's slayer behind the bars.

Captain Scott believed that Charlton would land today on board the Deutschland instead of the Princess Irene. He had never seen his sister's youthful husband, but he got a description of the murderer from the National City bank of New York, where Charlton worked after he left the university of Pennsylvania, where he was a member of the track team. Armed with this description Captain Scott went to Hoboken and interviewed Chief Hayes to whom he told his belief that Charlton would be on the Deutschland. The chief decided that Charlton would more likely be on the Princess Irene which came from Genoa and Naples than the Deutschland from Hamburg and England. He decided that as the steamers came in at different hours he would have both watched. The Princess Irene docked several hours before the Deutschland and Captain Scott and the officers boarded the ship as soon as she was warped in the slip.

They were directed to the second cabin where they found Charlton and placed him under arrest.

Father Won't Believe It
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—"I refuse to believe that it is my son," exclaimed Judge Paul Charlton today when informed that the police of Hoboken had arrested a man who had confessed he was Father Charlton and that he had murdered his wife. Judge Charlton broke down completely and was unable to say more. He has been living under a terrific strain ever since his son disappeared from Como.

In Charlton's grip were found the dead woman's jewels which are said to be very valuable.

May Refuse Extradition
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 23.—The demand for Porter Charlton's extradition, following the usual procedure will be made by the Italian consul in New York.

The possibility that the United States might refuse to allow Porter Charlton to be extradited to Italy was suggested here this afternoon. While the United States and other countries have extradition treaties with Italy that country has persistently refused to give up her citizens wanted in other countries.

Charlton being a citizen of this country, his father will contend that the United States follow the precedent set by Italy.

This Season

A baseball team, which it is claimed, will be able to "clean up" anything in the amateur line in La Crosse, is being organized by the La Crosse lodge of Elks, and a series of games with the U. C. T. of this city, the Winona Elks, the Minneapolis Elks and other teams is being arranged.

The team being organized is not to be without men who know the game as is indicated by the announcement that Chris Burns, hero of the old "Fruit House" team, has consented to pull down the balls that come over the plate.

Dr. McGovern of the north side, formerly pitcher for the university of Minnesota, will probably play. There is also talk that Jake Becker will keep the weeds out of one of the gardens.

The committee in charge of the team has announced that they are ready to receive challenges from any local team that has established a reputation, and it is probable the first game in La Crosse will be with the U. C. T.

Uniforms have been ordered, the suits to be white with purple lettering.

GANS THINKS JACK JOHNSON WILL WIN

PRESCOTT, Ariz., June 23.—Joe Gans, "the old master," who is in Prescott seriously ill with tuberculosis, declares that Johnson has a great chance to pin the heavyweight title beyond the reach of any living fighter, when he meets Jeffries on July 4 at Reno, Nev. Joe thinks the whole matter hinges on the question whether Jeffries has come back.

"I don't think Jeffries can possibly be the same fighter he was when he retired," said Gans. "If he were in his prime he would be a 10 to 1 favorite. But six years without a battle will make a bigger difference than the average person knows. Jeffries may look good but his six years of inactivity are bound to have his inner workings to the bad. He may be in his old time form but I doubt it despite what his trainers say."

Gans' condition is slightly improved. Several days ago he was reported dying.

CURIOUS CROWDS AFTER ROOSEVELT

CHICAGO, June 22.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., and his bride, who arrived here today and registered at the Congress hotel, as "Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Throop Rogers," were compelled to eat luncheon in their apartments to escape the gaze of a curious crowd which gathered after the identity of the couple had been learned.
